Transcription for video 'What I did on Saturday':

I woke up at 7 on Saturday morning and ate cereal for breakfast.

I had a lot of homework to do, but my room was so messy that I first cleaned my room. I had all kinds of junk on the floor like papers and dirty clothes. Once I was done, I started writing my English essay and finished my math homework.

Then it was almost noon. There was a soccer game on TV that I wanted to watch. So I watched the game while having a sandwich and potato chips for lunch.

After that I grabbed my tennis racket and left the house. I needed to go to the post office, but I was running out of gas. So I went to the gas station before mailing the letter.

Then I went to the tennis court. It was such a nice day. While I waited for my tennis buddies to show up, I watched some other people play. Some of them were really good! We played for about two hours.

Let's see. It was probably 5 o'clock. I was tired and sweaty, so I went back home and took a shower. While I was taking a shower, some friends texted me. They wanted to know if I wanted to hang out later tonight and watch a movie. I texted them back and told them to count me in.

Now it was about 7, and I was getting hungry. So before meeting my friends, I went to eat some Vietnamese noodle soup. Yummy!

Then I met my friends at the movie theater. We watched a movie called 'Need for Speed.' The acting was pretty bad. It was so bad that I fell asleep. They should have called it 'Need for Sleep.'

Hey I'm not complaining. Overall it was a good Saturday.
